

Facebook: the basics

To set up an account go to www.facebook.com. You will need to enter your name, email or mobile number, and a password (make this different from your email password!).

There are four main screens to look at on Facebook: 1) your profile, 2) an individual friend's profile, 3) your news feed (also called Home; information from all of your friends), and 4) your privacy shortcuts (covered in part 2). Easily move between these screens using the basic navigation bar at the top of the screen.

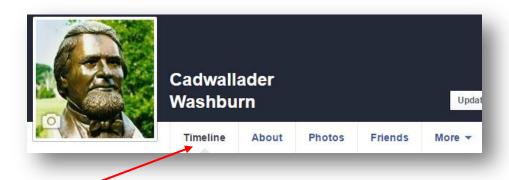

Basic navigation

Part 1: Your profile

Click on your name next to the search bar to see your profile:

Timeline – where you see your own posts, or things people posted about you

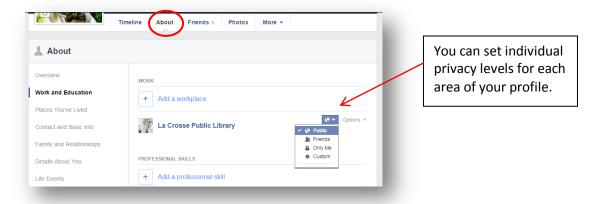

About – information about you

Photos – photos you posted, or photos of you that other people posted

Friends – people you are friends with

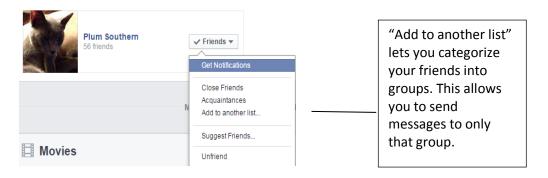

About

Add information about where you live, where you went to high school, etc. This is optional, but helps you find people you may know.

Friends

See your list of friends, access their individual profiles, unfollow them (you won't see them in your news feed, but they will see you) unfriend them, and sort them into lists.

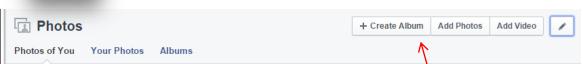

Photos

Add a profile picture

- Photos of you = pictures other people tagged you in
- Your photos = pictures you uploaded
- Albums = collections of photos you uploaded

Create Album if you have multiple photos of the same event; otherwise use Add Photos

Update your Status You can update a status from your profile or your Home screen.

Part 2: Finding friends and seeing their profiles

Search for people, places, etc. This is how you find people or places to like or friend. People = you "friend" people. It is easier to post to a person's profile rather than a page. Pages = you "like" pages. Places like La Crosse Public Library, La Crosse Tribune, businesses, etc. (although sometimes celebrities and politicians have a page even though they are people).

Search for friends' names in the search bar at the top. Click "Add Friend" to send them a friend request. When they accept your request, you will be friends with each other. Pages don't need to "like" you back.

Person (Add Friend)

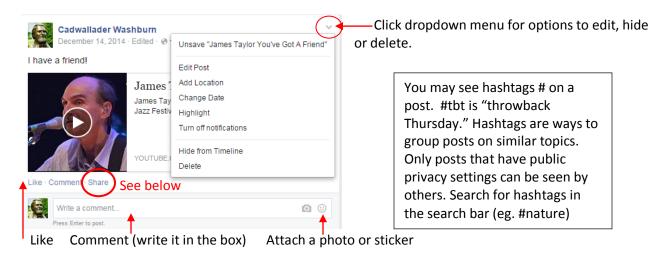

Page (Like)

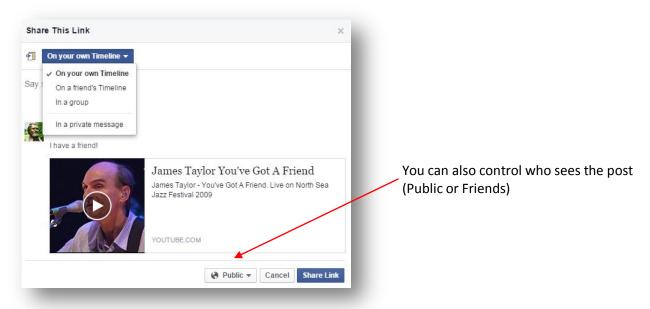

On your friend's profile, you can see their posts, photos, information, their list of friends, and more. You can also privately message them. On a business's page, you might also see reviews.

Like or comment on a post

Show appreciation for or interest in something someone else posted by liking it.

Sharing

Chatting A chat box is located in the bottom right corner or on the right side of the screen. You can see if people are online if there is a green dot by their name. Click on someone's name to chat with them (this is the same thing as a private message). You can also access private messages through the basic navigation icon at the top of the screen:

Part 3: Home (News Feed)

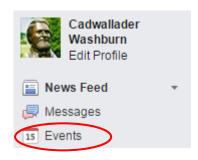

This is where you'll see posts from your friends and pages you've liked, as well as ads. Facebook tries to show the most relevant items (things that have the most comments, etc). You can change to "most recent" by clicking Home, and clicking the dropdown arrow next to News Feed on the top left.

Click the dropdown arrow on any post to remove it or stop seeing similar posts, or save the link for later.

Events From your Home page, you will see a link for events along the left side. Click it to create an event, or respond to an event you've been invited to.
